

P. MANASA

Part Time Lecturer,

Department of Journalism and Mass Communication.

Manasa is a Part Time Lecturer at Osmania University, specializing in Socio-Economic Affairs and Development Studies. With a unique academic journey that began with a BTech in Computer Science and Engineering, followed by a postgraduate degree in Journalism and Mass Communication, they bring an interdisciplinary perspective to the study and teaching of media.

Their expertise lies in exploring the intersection of journalism, socio-economic development, and governance. By teaching subjects such as Socio-Economic Affairs and Development Studies, Manasa emphasizes the critical role of journalism in addressing societal challenges, analysing economic policies, and fostering sustainable development.

As an educator, Manasa is passionate about mentoring students and encouraging them to critically engage with contemporary socio-economic issues and guiding them at competitive exams.
